Granary Destroyed in Farm Locality's Third Fire Within 10 Days

W. P Detwiler Rescues Little Daughter Just Before Gasoline Tank Explodes in Flaming Building Near Mt Victory; Fire Loss Placed at $1,500

Mt Victory Oct 22—The third fire to occur within a radius of five miles in the last 10 days destroyed the large granary on the William P Detwiler farm on the Kenton and Hepburn pk, about 8 o'clock Saturday night. Flames from gasoline with which Mr Detwiler was filling his automobile from a 50-gallon tank igniting from a lantern in the building caused the blaze. The loss is estimated at $1,500 and is partly covered by insurance.

Mr Detwiler barely succeeded in pushing the machine in which his little daughter, Zelda Detwiler, was sitting from the building before the fuel exploded. Aside from the building the loss included 250 bushels of oats, 100 bushels of wheat, large quantity of ground feed grain binder, potato planter, scales and other farm implements Mr Detwiler succeeded in saving a couple of long ladders stored in the building.

The house and other buildings standing near the granary were saved through efforts of firemen from Kenton and volunteer firemen from the neighborhood.

Water Supply Limited

Before the blaze was extinguished it was necessary to carry water from pails theies by eds fiOI Cyesieo as well as the barn as the water in the well and cistern at the house was soon exhausted. A galvanized roof on the building, kept the flames from spreading rapidly.

A barn at the John Berry farm burned Oct 12 and Oct 11 a large barn on the F M Eley farm was destroyed. The farm on which Mr Detwiler resided is owned by Hugh Hatcher, Kenton.

MANUFACTURERS SEE BUSINESS INCREASE

National Associations' Report on Survey Made Public; All Industries Show Better

New York Oct 22—The general prosperity of the nation received a re-newing substantiation here today at the convention of the National Association of Manufacturers through a report on a survey which showed 93 per cent of 4 000 manufacturers with an increase in business over last year. Nearly 20 per cent of those answering the questionnaires declared that trade conditions are excellent and forecast continued expansion.

Every industry and product reported upon makes a better showing for the 12 months than the replies did a year ago. What was considered as a significant fact was that the building supply concerns do not show that the building trades have decreased activities. The outlook for winter building throughout the country is regarded as favorable by only less than 15 per cent than those predicting the same last year.

A slight improvement in the textile industry, one which has been regarded as a weak spot in the industrial army, is now shown by the manufacturers survey. Eighty-eight per cent of the textile men report favorable conditions, compared with 81 per cent last year.

Better expectations for winter trade are harbored by 94 per cent of the nations industrialists.

The rear of the train had crossed the eastern tracks of the Pennsylvania railroad before Smith appeared on the observation platform. As he waved his brown derby at the crowd he was greeted with cheers. Smith disappeared into the rear car to appear again with handfuls of campaign buttons which he tossed into the throng.

A bouquet of flowers presented by local citizens was handed onto the train and telegraph dispatches were handed off. The dispatches were for the Western Union. Neither the Democratic nominee nor the newspaper men filed dispatches here.

Smith and his special train had just come from Bellefontaine, where a crowd of more than 5,000 gave the Democratic nominee an enthusiastic greeting.

One man shouted "Give a speech Al" according to report, but Smith answered that he was unable to do so. His voice was very hoarse as he made a few remarks.

ENTIRE STATE GAINS

Heavy Poll in Cities Forecasts Huge Vote on Nov 6

When the 42 registration booths in the city closed at 9 o'clock Saturday night 13838 persons had made themselves eligible to vote Nov 6. This was the total poll recorded during the four days of registration this month.

The total represents an increase of 1 269 over the total of 12,569 four years ago. While the increase is considered substantial it is not as large as was predicted by election board officials.

Marion kept step with the rest of the state when voters in all cities with populations of 15,000 and over were called to the polls to register on Oct 4, 11, 18 and 20. Reports today show huge gains in registration in all principal cities of Ohio.

Large Gain in Cleveland

Cleveland registered 407 000 this year for a gain of 53 200 over four years ago. Cincinnati, with a poll of 207 708 gained 17,700. Toledo gained 19 100 to place its poll at 92 140. A gain of 24,024 in Columbus put the total there at 120,774.

Political leaders in the state who today are going over registration figures freely predict that Ohio will cast at least two and a half million votes on Nov 6. Registrations in Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati and Toledo increased from approximately one half million to three fourths of a million.

Although a redistricting of precincts in certain wards in the city will make any comparison of this years figures with those four years ago slightly inaccurate all wards as

PLAN INQUIRY INTO DEATHS OF 2 HEIRS

Children Are Victims of Fall from Hotel Roof in New York City

New York, Oct. 22—An inquiry into the tragic deaths of Terrence and Benjamin Waldman, baby heirs to the Guggenheim millions, was under way today on the initiative of Dr. Charles Norris, chief medical examiner who announced that he had decided that it "would be best for all concerned to determine officially the facts in the case."

The babies, Terrence, four and one-half years old, and Benjamin, 11 months, plunged 18 stories from the roof of Hotel Surrey to the roof of a three story adjoining building, and were killed. Since then the mother, Mrs. Milton B. Waldman, who was on the roof with the babies at the time, has been in a sanitarium suffering from shock.

Dr. Norris decided on an official inquiry after a two hour inspection of the penthouse bungalow of Mr. and Mrs Cornelius Buxton Lore, Jr, and the roof. Mrs. Waldman had been paying a visit to Mrs. Lore at the time of the tragedy.

Previously police department officials had said that the police investigation was finished and that they were satisfied that the death of the children was accidental.

GOV. AL SMITH'S LAIR INVADED BY HOOVER

Climax of Nominee's Day Will Be Madison Square Garden Speech

New York Oct 22—Untrenched in the Tammany stronghold, Herbert Hoover today was in the midst of a militant personal drive to capture New York State's 45 electoral votes.

The Republican nominee opened the last fortnight of his campaign for the presidency by leaving his comfortable headquarters in Washington to invade New York City, already conceded to his Democratic rival, Gov Alfred E Smith. Hoover however used the metropolis as a background for his real objective—the nations of the state and a victory throughout the whole industrial east.

Hoover entered the metropolitan area in good spirits and optimistic over the potential results of the approaching election. He told newsmen that he was satisfied with the progress of the campaign everywhere and that was tantamount to predicting a sweeping victory for the Republican party. He was particularly cheerful over reports reaching him of shifting tides in Massachusetts and Rhode Island, which indicate Republican victories in both states. His managers already look upon New Jersey as Republican territory and Hoover's visit here was planned to help insure a victory in the Empire State.

Hoover faced one of the busiest days of his campaign here, with a program crowded from morning to night with conferences. His visit will be climaxed by delivery of a prepared address at Madison Square Garden tonight.

Fifteen hundred men have been on strike for four days at the Diamond mine and police hold factionalism was running high.

SENTENCE JAWORSKI TO ELECTRIC CHAIR

Pittsburgh Slayer Denied New Trial by Visiting Judge

Pittsburgh, Oct 22—Paul Jaworski Pennsylvania's arch bandit and killer, must die in the electric chair for the murder of Isaiah Clump, toll guard.

Jaworski today was denied a new trial by visiting Judge T Frank Graff in criminal court and sentenced to death.

Jaworski was carried into the courtroom on a stretcher, paralyzed by bullets fired by Cleveland police after the leader of the notorious "Dale" gang killed a policeman there recently.

He took the sentence without flinching, and refused to comment. Detectives, heavily armed, lined the courtroom and the "bridge of sighs" between the jail and the courtroom.

In answer to Judge Graff's question, he replied, "I have nothing to say." His face flushed, and his hand, which held a corn cob pipe, trembled slightly.

Pennsylvania's most feared bandit, who himself admits he does not know how many men have fallen victim to his gun, seemed anxious to get the ordeal over and be taken to Bellefonte and the death chair.

His career in crime dates back many years and numbers among it the Mellenaire robbery, in which Clump was killed, and the bombing of an armored payroll car of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation, in which $101,000 was taken by his gang.

THIS IS NEW

Machine Records Amount of Work Done in Factory

London, Oct. 22—A machine for recording the amount of work done by a workman in the absence of the "boss" is one of the most interesting exhibits at the international exhibition of inventions at Westminster.

Some would call this machine the most sinister of the exhibits. It can be connected between the office of the employer and any machines without the man in charge knowing anything about it.

When the employer arrives he can see at a glance whether the machine has been running in its proper time or whether the workman has had unoccupied moments; also, it shows how many articles have been turned out.

Smith Rests One Day in Campaign

BY GEORGE R. HOLMES

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 22—Back home for a short breathing spell, Governor Smith rested today for what he was described as "the battle of the eastern rearguard" the opening gun in which will be fired in Boston on Wednesday.

Governor Smith will leave Albany tomorrow night, not to return to it again until he knows whether he is to be the next president of the United States, or just another defeated candidate.

From Boston he will go to New York on Thursday and from that familiar base engage in a fast-flying tour of the great eastern centers that are so vital to his success. The next two weeks will see him in Massachusetts, New York, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Maryland, seven states in which even the Republicans admit his candidacy has strong appeal this year.

126 Votes at Stake

Should he win them all two weeks hence, and should the solid south and border states stand firm in their normal and traditional Democracy, Governor Smith will win the presidency, even though he carries not a single western state. But, by the same token, any great or material defection in the east would be fatal.

This group of seven eastern states selected as the battle ground for the climax of the 1928 campaign have a total of 126 electoral votes. The solid south, meaning those 10 southern states never carried by any Republican candidate for the presidency, has 114. The four border states of Tennessee, Kentucky, Missouri and Oklahoma have 53. These groups combine to make a total of 292 or 26 more than the 266 electoral votes necessary to victory.

Smith Is Confident

There are no Republicans though and only a comparatively few Democrats who believe Governor Smith has much prospect of winning Pennsylvania's 38 votes, whatever may be his chances in these other eastern states.

Governor Smith himself, however, is one of the doubters. He is going to speak in Philadelphia next Saturday night. Democratic candidates for the presidency do not usually speak in Pennsylvania, considering it a waste of time. But, Al Smith not only does not so consider it—he believes he is going to win it.

Probably no Democratic presidential candidate has ever been so confident of victory two weeks before election as Governor Smith is at the end of his campaign in the west. He fairly radiated confidence in his observations at the daily press conferences.

480 Delegates Attend District Convention at First Reformed Church

George Heckler, Bucyrus, Elected President for Coming Year; Upper Sandusky Chosen for Next Annual Meeting

With 480 registered delegates, the annual Sunday school convention of the northern section of the Central Ohio classis, Ohio Synod of the Reformed church, was held yesterday at First Reformed church.

Sessions were held at 2:30 and 7:30 o'clock with Dr. E. H. Zaugg, of Heidelberg college, who addressed the evening session, as the principal speaker.

Officers elected for the coming year include George Heckler, of Bucyrus, president; Kermit Ohl, of Carrothers, vice president; Mrs. Sheldon Lester of this city, secretary-treasurer; Asa Queen, of this city, chorister; and Kenneth Reasch, of Galion, organist at the local church, pianist. Ralph Neff of Bucyrus is the retiring president.

It was decided to hold the next annual meeting at Upper Sandusky at the new Reformed church being erected there.

Awards Made

The attendance banners were awarded Bucyrus, for the largest delegation, and the College Hill church of the Carrothers charge for the largest percentage attendance.

The Reformed churches of Galion, Crestline, Upper Sandusky, Sycamore, Delaware, Waldo, Prospect, Green Camp, Wharton, and Sulphur Springs, were also represented.

In his address, "The Church's Educational Task," last night, Dr. Zaugg said in part, "The Church has two tasks, the first the winning of individuals, and the second and even more important, the christianizing of all activities, the making of religion a practical, liveable thing."

"There are four principal things unchristian about the Church and Sunday school," Dr. Zaugg said, "first, militarism, second, the spirit of lawlessness, third, race prejudice, and fourth materialism. The way to remove those obstacles to Christianity is through the positive teachings of Christ."

Afternoon Program

Speakers in the afternoon were the Rev. Frank Zartman, of Sulphur Springs, George Heckler, of Bucyrus, and the Rev. Herbert F. Weckmueller, local pastor, each of whom led discussions. Mr. Zartman spoke on "The Activity of the Youth in the Church," Mr. Heckler on "The Sunday School and Its Recreational Program" and Mr. Weckmueller on "Teacher Training." The Rev. W. H. Lahr, of Whetstone, presided for devotionals.

Other features of the day's program were a violin selection by Miss Clover Mae Klingel, accompanied at the organ by Kenneth Reasch, of Galion, local church organist, a reading by Miss Mary Jo Case, of Sycamore, and devotionals, at night, by the Rev. Ariel Achterman, of Prospect.

Program for the Christian Endeavor meeting at 6:30 o'clock, between sessions, was on the topic, "How Law Increases Freedom."

CICCO TRIAL TURNS INTO LEGAL BATTLE

Elyria Courtroom Crowded as Dry Agent Hearing Opens

Elyria, Oct. 22—With the courtroom packed, and many others waiting in the corridors for an opportunity to enter, the trial of Louis Cicco, former Lorain patrolman, charged with shooting with intent to wound, became a heated legal battle today.

Miss Betty Heywood, 22, of Elyria, was the first witness for the state, taking the stand shortly before noon. She wore a scarf about her head, similar to those worn by girl tennis players, to conceal the wound at the base of her skull which Cicco is alleged to have inflicted.

Cicco, with Deputy Sheriff Frank Kludy and Patrolman Walter Kuitter, of Lorain, were watching for a rum-running automobile at a highway bridge in Lorain on the night of Sept. 20. An automobile in which Miss Heywood was a passenger, failed to immediately heed their command to stop, the officers charge, and several shots were fired at it, allegedly by Cicco. One of them struck Miss Heywood.

Opening statements to the jury by prosecution and defense were made shortly after court opened this morning. George Gilliech, defense counsel, declared that but for "outside influences" the charges against Cicco would never have been pressed.

Cicco, he said, sent flowers to Miss Heywood while she was in the hospital and visited her several times. Miss Heywood, he said, had expressed the hope that there be no prosecution of Cicco.

PESSIMISM NOTE IN PARISIAN PLAYS

Universal Strain of Discontentment and Failure Runs Through Dramas

Paris, Oct. 22—Pessimism is the keynote to the works of the young French dramatists which are now appearing at the theaters in the capital.

A universal strain of discontentment, failure and misfortune runs though even the lightest and gayest of dramas. Success flees from the main personages. They never quite "arrive," or they reach their goal only to be cast down again.

Fortune makes promises she cannot keep. Happiness is transitory and gone forever. There is an undercurrent of melancholy and discouragement which is probably an aftermath of war days and which will undoubtedly continue during a few more seasons.

"Terminus," by Henry Soumagne, is the story of the last hours of a being sentenced to death. If it were less incoherent, it might merit more attention. There is a forest hut in which lives a Chinese mystic able to predict to the minute the span of life of any creature. One of the visitors learns he is to die at midnight and then begins his moral agony in which the woman he loves takes a part as well.

Maurice Rostand's new play, "Napoleon IV," dealing with the destiny of the young French Imperial who was killed in the Zulu War, is decidedly anti-British and certainly not optimistic in regard to international peace.

A revolving stage, the first among French theaters, is the drawing card at the old Theater de la Renaissance, now producing Maurice Dekobra's "Madonna of the Sleepings." There are nine tableaux showing slim Lady Diana trying to shock the bourgeoisie and keep the smart set talking.

A woman is never miss understood after she gets married.

Build a 40-Year EDGWOOD Roof and Forget It!

IN Grandpop's time, folks made every penny count. They realized that durability was the first essential in home construction. As a result, there are thousands of old homes that were roofed a half century ago with Red Cedar Shingles that are giving service today.

Nature created this wonderful roofing material in her centuries-old Cedar trees, and endowed it with a time-resisting preservative against decay. When you put an EDGWOOD Red Cedar roof on your home you can forget it! You have a roof that will be free from trouble for forty years and more.

Every sturdy Edgwood Shingle is sawn edgegrain to prevent cupping, curling and warping. Your architect, contractor, or lumber-dealer will explain how this edgegrain feature permits a greater exposure for EDGWOOD Shingles — 5" for 16" EDGWOODS — 5½" for 18" EDGWOODS. As a result, EDGWOOD Shingles cost you no more than the ordinary flat-grain Shingles. We believe EDGWOODS will last longer (40 years and more), than any other roofing material, not excluding tile or slate in those territories addicted to hail-storms.

"EDGWOOD HOMES" is an interesting and informative illustrated booklet. We'll gladly send it free on receipt of name and address.

Daily Proverb—"One may surfeit with too much as well as starve with too little."

Talking about political straws, Iowa estimates her corn crop to be worth $118,000,000.

It might help some were some limit placed by law on the campaign expenditures of magazines and newspapers in taking straw votes.

President Coolidge is going down to Virginia for his Thanksgiving dinner. That's where the turkey gobbler and the sweet potatoes grow.

The United Safety council reports that housework is one of the most hazardous occupations. Possibly so, but the can-opener is certainly working overtime to lessen the hazard.

So many inconsequential matters have been injected into the present campaign that the outlook is that the polls will close without many of the really material matters ever being reached.

For some time to come there will be one advantage in dirigible travel; there'll be no old air traveler to bore passengers to death with his tales of past trips.

A few more receptions like that given her by the Glasgow Students' union, and Aimee Semple McPherson is liable to begin to suspect that the Scots refuse to take her four-square gospel seriously.

The Detroit Free Press says the pedestrian's margin of safety in business streets is at times so narrow that he might just as well be walking a tight wire. Huh! There are times when walking a tight wire would look to a pedestrian like a regular snap.

The berths on the Graf Zeppelin are said to be more comfortable than those on a Pullman, but it's hard to see where that is going to add much to the appeal of a Zeppelin trip.

The latest campaign story, another palpable lie and this time directed at Secretary Hoover, possibly would have attracted little attention had it not been circulated by a southern governor, and not much even thus uttered were there more general appreciation of the fact that some mighty small potatoes get into gubernatorial chairs.

Senator Borah, who is "trailing" Governor Smith, is to be trailed by Senator Glass, and just as likely as not somebody will be started out to trail the Virginia senator. Isn't the entire trailing business pretty old stuff to be employed in an age of newspapers and the radio?

Not a Let-Down in Morals.

We have noted a number of editorial expressions of regret that Andorra, situated high up in the Pyrenees between Spain and France has virtually sold itself to a syndicate of Paris and Strasbourg financiers, who will exploit it by turning it into another Monte Carlo.

There might be ground for regret that Europe's smallest republic and last unspoiled Arcadia is about to be modernized, for the syndicate has already begun the work of making the newly-acquired concession accessible to tourists. Now roads are being constructed through the mountain passes. A railroad has been constructed from Barcelona and a line from Toulouse will be completed by 1930, the year set for the opening of the new gambling resort.

But there is little occasion for regret that the people of Andorra have sold out to the syndicate as the result of a recent letting-down of their morals. The fact that hereafter they are to live on the proceeds of gambling, augmented by a small tax they will be permitted to levy on all who cross their frontier, need cause no pangs of regret from the outside world over a possible moral retrogression. When it comes to the moral issue, the giving of the concession will probably result in an elevation of the morals of Andorra. This will be the outcome, of course, if gambling may be taken as a degree or two less objectionable in a people than smuggling.

For years smuggling has been the chief occupation of the Andorrans, at least it has been their chief means in gaining a livelihood. But the French and Spanish customs officials have tightened up the lines in recent years and smuggling no longer proved the great remunerative outdoor sport it once was. In fact, the zeal of the officials of the two neighboring nations have so reduced smuggling, that it was necessary for Andorrans to sell out to the syndicate or go to work. They preferred to accept the fruits of gambling and rest.

A moral phase of the transaction, so far as the people of Andorra are concerned, is non-existant.

Shall the Bars Be Let Down?

So intense has been the general interest in the presidential race—and there doesn't appear to be any indication that it will abate in the slightest degree between the present and the date of election—that many may not have given, and may continue to neglect to give, the degree of consideration they should to the threat to liberalize the immigration law.

It is neither the purpose nor the desire of this newspaper to quarrel with any voter over his choice for the presidency, whether that choice be Mr. Smith or Mr. Hoover. From what we know of the two men, from what we have gleaned from the public life of each and from their utterances during the campaign, we believe Mr. Hoover to be the better equipped for the presidency, but this does not blind us to the fact that there are millions of voters who favor Mr. Smith, which is their unquestionable right. Well and good.

But no matter which of these gentlemen may be chosen to enter the White House, this matter of changing the immigration law will not be determined by the victor in the race for the presidency. Presidents do not make laws. They may suggest legislation; they may champion measures, but the great majority of laws enacted by congress do not come into existence through executive initiative.

Hence it is that we would have the voter, regardless of his presidential preference, give more attention to a very important issue which has received but little attention. We have seen oceans of matter in print, on the subject of prohibition, power development, farm relief, and many other matters having a rightful place in the campaign which are not subject for executive determination, and oceans in print about a lot of matters which should not have been injected into it, but up to date we have come upon little in print on the subject of immigration.

About twenty-five years ago, immigration began to grow by leaps and bounds. Less than 500,000 in 1901, it mounted to 857,046 in 1903, went up to 1,026,499 in 1905 and 1,285,349 in 1907. It dropped to 1,041,570 in 1910, but two years later was up to 1,218,480. The war operated as a bar during the continuation of the struggle, with the result that immigration dropped to 110,618 in 1918. The year before this, the 1917 immigration law was enacted, by the terms of which each foreign country, with a few exceptions, was given a quota equal to three per cent. of the number of persons born in that country who were residents of continental United States as shown by the census of 1910. Immigration at once began to increase, with the result that in 1921 it reached a total of 706,896.

It was in the last named year that congress enacted the new law, which changed the law of 1917 in two important respects.

First—Under the new law the undesirable or ineligible aliens are largely weeded out before they start instead of after they get here.

The law relieves the great body of immigrants of detention at Ellis Island and removes many causes for delays and misfortunes after they reach American ports. The act was intended also to prevent separation of families, and to reduce the number of deportations for causes which can be determined on the other side.

The American consuls are directed to examine the information given on questionnaires and eliminate applicants who are feeble-minded and whose prison records make them undesirable.

The principal United States consular officer in each foreign country is designated as quota-control officer, and it is his duty to see that the quota is not exceeded. The consular service is under the department of state.

Second—The annual quota from each country, with a few exceptions, is lowered to two per cent. of the number of persons born in that country who were residents of continental United States as shown by the 1890 census.

Under the provisions of the law, each country is given a minimum of 100, and preference is given to immigrants who are unmarried children under twenty-one years of age, the father, the mother, the husband or the wife of a citizen of the United States who is twenty-one years of age or over. The year following, 1925, immigration dropped to 294,314, and last year it was 335,175.

The Democratic party is committed to quotas based on a more recent census than that on which the present law is based and a liberalization of the present quotas. The Republican party favors the retention of the existing law, which, by the way, is more favorable to northern Europe than to southern, for the reason that its quotas are based on a census which portrayed the blood strains of the country before the mighty flood of immigration swept in and continued to swoop until it became manifest that it had to be checked; that if it were not, America could not be preserved for Americans.

It is a well-recognized fact that many voters favoring the head of a ticket vote that ticket all the way down. Following that policy may cause many voters to vote—indirectly, of course—for a freer immigration policy to which they are opposed. It is possible, in the absence of light on the subject, that many who are perfectly satisfied with our immigration law and opposed to the letting-down of the immigration bars—voters who believe in America for Americans—may vote for members of the federal senate and house who are committed to a change of the law.

It is the privilege of every voter to decide for whom he, or she, will vote, but he or she, as the case may be, should not vote blindly. For this reason each and every voter casting a ballot at the coming election should so mark it as to make the nearest possible approach to the voter's preferences and wishes, whatever they may be.

"YOO-HOO."

An Excellent Habit.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Just now I saw a company of "Marines." I am on a railroad train passing through New London, Connecticut. Apparently these boys are off a ship anchored in this port.

In a sense, the marines are "the first line of defense," they are the "shock troops." They are first in war, first in defense, first to maintain the fights of their country, no matter what uniform they wear. We affectionately call them "Devil Dogs."

But, of course, it is not my present business to enlarge upon the military and naval establishments. What I have in mind is to speak of what physical discipline does for people.

These upstanding, husky young men are not sturdy and strong merely because they are marines. They have almost perfect physical health because the authorities insist upon right eating, hours for sleep and recreation, regularity in all their habits.

There is a lesson in their good bodies for each of us. We need not join the marines in order to get vigorous health. We may have it whether we are men, women or children, whether we live in city or country, no matter what our occupation may be, provided we live regular lives.

Mortal man is the creature of habit. He can adapt himself to almost any program of living provided there is regularity in its application.

Just how much sleep you need depends on your up-bringing. When I was a boy, "to bed at 9 o'clock," was the rule. I got set to that arrangement and when I became a "city man," it was difficult to get used to the later hours practiced in the big town.

Old-fashioned folks who always get up at 5 o'clock suffer if they have to stay in bed in the morning. It is the fixed habit and difficult to change.

People who have always had dinner at 12 o'clock noon, are devoured by hunger if there is an unwonted delay in the meal. The habit of eating is one of the strongest we possess.

I am not particularly interested in your daily habits, provided they are followed with unbroken regularity. The regularity is far more important than the program itself.

The reason why Sunday may be the day for a headache and why the next day is "Blue Monday," is because of the irregularity of sleeping and eating and "doing" hours of Sunday. The accustomed routine is broken and the body rebels.

Study your life. Your calling demands that you report for business at a certain hour, every day. If it does not, it should.

It makes little difference what time you go to bed or get up, how much you sleep or how little, what time you eat or how much, how much you play or how you play—all these things make little difference, provided there is regularity in doing them.

That is the thing that counts. That is why the marines thrive and have health. That is how you may be equally sturdy.

Regularity in doing is far more important than what you do, assuming of course that you are living sensibly.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

J. B. Q—I would like advice regarding the proper way to get rid of pimples?

A—You must correct your diet by cutting down on sugar, starches and coffee. Almost always constipation or at least sluggish bowel movements are present. This must be corrected. Exercise is essential. In may cases some infection in the system is responsible. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.—Copyright, 1928, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

AIR TRAVEL.

The only woman passenger on the Graf Zeppelin landed with a smile and the statement that she enjoyed every minute of the trip over. A male passenger said he would not make the trip again for a million dollars. The other passengers were less articulate; but their manner showed that they had had a trying experience. After being cooped up for 111 hours in a tiny cabin, with little elbow and less leg room, all were glad to put foot on terra firma again. The water supply ran out and the food supply ran low because an insufficient margain for delay was allowed. This added to the discomforts of men doubtless thoroughly aware of the uncertainty of getting across the Atlantic without mishap. The ship was slowed down by an accident to her port fin. Altogether, when she reached Lakehurst her passengers were in no mood to brook gracefully the delay upon "docking" her and putting them through the necessary immigration, customs and medical formalities. Yet all things considered, a passenger on the Graf Zeppelin can have had little to complain of. The first voyage of a passenger-carrying airship across the Atlantic was performed experimental, although air cruising is nothing new in Europe. The lessons learned on the way over doubtless will be used to good purpose on future voyages. The "docking" of the ship at Lakehurst was done by untrained men and was hampered by a strong ground wind. When air liners come and go as regularly as ocean liners they will be dragged out of the sky by men who have acquired experience in that line of work; and it is to be hoped that arrangements will be made for the inspection of passengers on land. Airships probably will never be able to provide many of the luxuries of travel one enjoys on ocean vessels. As they are further developed, however, they will be made more comfortable and dependable. Their great advantage over steamships is in speed. The man in a hurry, who doesn't mind being cooped up in a small space for two or three days, will find them a great convenience; while people who prefer comfort to speed will go on for a long time to come jogging across the ocean at twenty-five or thirty knots an hour.—Detroit Free Press.

ARMED BURGLARS AND THE LAW.

The man who goes armed with a deadly weapon into a home in the night time for the purpose of burglary and robbery is a potential murderer and should be so treated. That was the declaration of a judge of the supreme court of the District of Columbia recently. And, in harmony with that thought, he gave sentences of not less than fifteen years or more than nineteen years to three gunmen burglars, all under twenty-one years of age.

It was only good fortune, the fact that they did not meet real resistance, that prevented these young gunmen from committing murder. The fact that they were prepared proves the degree of determination they had employed and can be read only as evidence of the deliberate intent to take life, if necessary to secure the treasure sought and make their escape.

Obviously the sentences brought protests and questions from some who thought the term was out of proportion to the amount of the robbery. The court did not include the amount of wealth secured by the burglars in the facts considered. Rather, he included the preparation to kill that was in evidence when the men were captured.

Most gunmen now go armed with automatics, the most deadly weapon ever made for the use of man, weapons made for only one purpose, that of killing. No gunman should be listened to when he utters his declaration that he did not intend to take human life. The weapon chosen by him and carried in his depredations proves the lie he utters. There is much in the situation to justify the decision of the Washington judge. The armed burglar supplies all the testimony needed as to the course he intends to follow if he runs into collision with a man who resists him. The armed burglar is a potential killer.—Ohio State Journal.

New York Day by Day.

Beyond 110th street on First avenue there stretches the most opulent of the city's Little Italies, extending to 125th street. The Italian quarter springing up there is the last stand of wealthy Italians before spreading to private mansions and toney apartments.

Here are vegetable, olive oil and spaghetti merchants, most of whom are prosperous. Few vendettas and mysterious throat slittings, often marking Italian neighborhoods, are recorded. Conversation is mostly in English.

The pronounced poverty of the newly-arrived in Mulberry bend is missing. The big step in Americanization has been achieved. Frequent fete days are colorful, the streets being arched with decorations and the upstairs flats spangled with many-hued lights. No people can get so much out of a fete as the Italians.

When We Met a Nebula.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

A few years ago Harlow Shapley, now director of the Harvard observatory, published in the Journal of Geology a remarkable paper indicating that the puzzling climatic changes in the past history of the earth, such as the great ice ages, may have been caused by the passage of the sun and solar system through the vast nebulous region in the constellation Orion. This constellation is now beginning to appear above the eastern horizon late in the evening, and rising earlier and earlier, it will be the most conspicuous stellar display in the sky during the fall and winter. Its great nebula is easily visible in an opera glass, and an amateur astronomical telescope gives a thrilling view of it, which becomes still more interesting when the observer reflects upon the possibility that our planet was once involved in the conflicting currents of that green-tinted nebulous ocean in space.

The distance of the Orion nebula is about 600 light-years. A few million ordinary years would suffice for the solar system to have travelled from that neighborhood to its present position. Shapley calculates that it may have been a million years passing through the nebulous region in Orion, which is far larger than the great nebula itself.

Now, it happens that this region contains many small variable stars—our sun itself would be a small star seen at their distance—and these variables are peculiar, their periodicity being irregular, while their light changes are unlike those of any other recognized types; and in other ways they show an individuality which seems to put them in a class by themselves.

In a word, they may be experiencing vicissitudes such as once afflicted our sun when he was conducting his planets across that troubled quarter of space, for troubled it seems to be, judging from the complication of oppositely and irregularly directed currents that suggest a "churning" movement in the nebula, which might be produced by the passage through it of stars speeding in various directions. Dr. Shapley suggests that the irregularities of the light changes of the Orion type of variable stars result from collision or friction with the irregular nebulosity in which those stars are involved.

Now, the amount of variation in the radiation of the Orion variables is from twenty to eighty per cent. But, says Dr. Shapley, a variation of twenty per cent. in the sun's radiation "if maintained for a considerable period of years would sufficiently alter terrestrial temperature to bring on, or remove, an ice sheet and an eighty per cent. change unless counteracted by concurrent changes in the terrestrial atmosphere, would completely dessicate, or congeal, the surface of the earth."

The Orion region is by no means the only part of space in which diffuse nebulosities are known to exist. They lie all about us like clouds, though probably there is none near the earth, nor directly ahead in the sun's path, with which an encounter could be predicted within the next million years or so.

But, how interesting to look back along the possible track that we have been pursuing for eons, and to see, far behind, the glow of the ominous center of the great Orion nebulosity, and scattered around it a whole fleet of stars whose fluttering lights may be telltale indications of experiences resembling that encountered by the solar system in the days when huge glaciers, sweeping down from the Pole in the chill of an unnourished sun, alternated with outbursts of dessicating heat when the solar furnace was fired again by encounter with a dense knot of nebula.—Copyright 1928, International Feature Service, Inc.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Interesting statistics tell us that one out of every thirty persons in the United States is a "capitalist." That is to say he has invested in bonds or securities of various kinds. Real millionaires own less than seven per cent. of outstanding corporation stocks. Large numbers of men who receive salaries of no more than $3,000 or $4,000 a year are stockholders.

Such a condition of affairs could not be found elsewhere in the world. The solidity of the American republic rests largely on the actual ownership which such a large number have in its affairs.

A Michigan court put a stop to the plan of a feeble-minded girl to marry. The jurist refused to allow the release of the girl from an institution. Strict enforcement of a law preventing the marriage of the mentally and physically unfit is more needed than the enforcement of a lot of laws that we worry a great deal about. We need on the bench not only men who know the law, but men of vision broad enough to think of the human race—men whose decisions are such as to bring about the greatest good for the greatest number.

A girl thirteen years old, married almost a year, and arrested for being intoxicated, was brought before the judge of a juvenile court not many days ago. There are those who say the misbehavior of boys and girls—young people whether married or unmarried—is the result of prohibition. Is that the real reason? Would the open rather than the secret sale of liquor change the habits of boys and girls? In the old days there was an old-fashioned phrase often heard. It had to do with young folks and it was called "bringing up." Misbehavior today is not to be traced to prohibition or to any other one cause. It is the direct result of a certain kind of "bringing up."

When you are asked to give your money for a cause, study the cause. If the money is to be used for the support of institutions which deal with youth, be more liberal than when it is to be used for any other purpose. The hope of this world is another chance. Any the new chance is to be taken by boys and girls—boys and girls today, but grown-up tomorrow. The greatest cause in all the world is the cause of youth.

Galion and Upper Sandusky Grid Teams Defeat Visitors

ORANGEMEN SHOW FIGHTING SPIRIT

Stage Surprise and Thrills for Crowd in Tilt with Shelby

OVERWHELMING SCORE

Wyandot County Players Outclass North Baltimore Players in Game at Park

Galion, Oct. 22—Showing the finest type work and the most indomitable fighting spirit of the season Galion high school's scrappy Orangemen won their first league tilt of the season from Shelby, Saturday afternoon by the substantial score of 14-0. During the second half the strength of the local eleven was especially evident as Shelby caused little worry throughout the final period.

The team that had previously lost to both Marion and Mansfield showed a finish Saturday that was entirely lacking in former games and gave the crowd a number of real thrills. Sport followers who were becoming a trifle discouraged are now predicting future wins and marching at the well organized grid machine that suddenly emerged from a squad that before had played with spirit but lacked the essential team play.

Opens Scoring

Shelby opened the scoring when a pass intercepted on their own 25-yard line was good for a touchdown, and the first quarter closed 6-0 for Shelby. It was in the last few minutes of the second quarter, after a brilliant series of plays that Schupp carried the ball across the line for the Orangemen and Hockstra making good the extra point, that Galion jumped into the lead.

Although the third period was scoreless Galion had the edge and early in the closing quarter Zinn took the ball over for the final touchdown. Hockstra again proved his booting ability with a perfectly timed kick that netted the additional point. The Orangemen had begun another march to the Shelby goal when the game closed.

Shelby although a comparative newcomer to the league is an ancient rival of Galion's and the largest crowd of the season gathered at Hesse field to witness the game.

The remaining games on the local schedule are being eagerly anticipated and the team has yet to face several severe tests. If the line can continue the same formidable style of play and the same effective interference can be given the ball toters the future looks rosy for the Eatonians.

Upper Sandusky Gridders Defeat North Baltimore 71 to 0

Upper Sandusky, Oct. 22—Running up an overwhelming score against their opponents with their second second string men playing half of the game Upper Sandusky high school pigskin chasers, defeated North Baltimore high football team 71 to 0. The game was played Saturday afternoon at Harrison Smith park with a large company of rooters for both schools in attendance.

Using six or seven different plays, the local gridders completely baffled the visitors who were unable to do anything. More than half the eleven touchdowns were chalked up in the first quarter and the remainder with the exception of one in the final quarter. Coach Sollars ran in a complete team of second stringers for the second and third quarters, putting his regulars back in the fracas for the final shift. Although playing against a much heavier team and completely outclassed from the start, North Baltimore put up a plucky battle. Scoring glory went to no one man with a number of the pigskin toters carrying the ball across the goal.

Walter Dunwoody, from Ohio Northern university, Ada, acted as referee and Richard Whitney as head lineman. Next week the local team was scheduled to play Forest here but the game has been canceled by Forest. Having only 12 eligible players on her team is the reason given for the canceled booking. According to school officials, no other game will be booked for this week.

Sager, pastor of First Evangelical church, read the single ring service assisted by the Rev. Ralph Harshman, of Tippecanoe City, O. One hundred and fifty invited guests attended the wedding.

Easter lilies and chrysanthemums in tall baskets, contributed a note of color to the altar and the pews were marked with white tulle and small floral baskets.

A prelude of organ wedding music was played by Miss Ruth Ludwig, including "At the Old Trysting Place," "With Sweet Lavender," and Krebs' "Old Refrain." Edgar Herber, baritone, sang "I Love You Truly" and "At Dawning."

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors, where guests were served from a table centered with a wedding cake decorated with a miniature bride and groom. Four tall white tapers graced with white tulle bows gave an attractive note to the table appointments Miss Margaret Knight, of Delaware, and Mrs. Edward Englehart, of Salem, presided at the coffee urns. A trio composed of Miss Jone Hertzer, violinist, Miss Ruth Ludwig, pianist, and Miss Evelyn Schieber, cello, played during the reception.

C. F. Rise, president of the Galion Democratic club, made the opening remarks and presented Hon. John C. Rankin, congressman from Missouri, whose discussion of campaign issues was most interesting.

Other meetings with prominent speakers have been planned by the committee with Mr. Rise in charge, and the work will continue until election time with many important Democrats appearing here for campaign speeches.

WEDS DETROIT MAN

Upper Sandusky Pastor Reads Service for Wedding

Fight Fat

in this right way

A great cause of excess fat lies in an under active gland. Medical science discovered that fact some years ago. Experiments on thousands of animals proved that fat departed when this cause was corrected. Then physicians the world over began to use the method in treating human obesity. Since then, excess fat has been fast disappearing. Slender figures are the rule. You see that everywhere.

About 21 years ago this method was embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for two decades—millions of boxes of them. Users told the results to others—the loss in weight, the gain in health and vigor. Thus the use has grown to enormous proportions. That is one great reason for the slender figures, the youth and beauty that you see today.

No starvation is required, no hard work. One simply takes four tablets daily until weight comes down to normal. Every box contains the formula, also the reasons for results. You know what you are taking and why.

If you need help in fighting fat, this is the help to employ. Use what has done so much for so many, for so long. Deal with the cause. Don't wait longer. A normal figure will mean much to you. Go start Marmola now.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out, he will get them at once from his jobber.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

It protects the one great beauty of the feminine foot—the perfect curve of the instep. The famous arch bridge supports the arch. Your instep cannot lose its grace. The flat, crosswise inner sole—another difference—prevents pinching of the sensitive foot nerves, while the metatarsal support makes walking or dancing a tireless joy. More Than Words Can Tell

FOLKS relate their experience with this mortician or that. Folks present at funerals observe the attending mortician's quality of service and equipment, his methods and results furnished. And from there a mortician's prestige and clientele grows, or goes the other way: and his value judged. Our prominence in this community sufficiently expresses the superior funeral service we give: that speaks volumes which no other way of impressing can convey. Further comment from us becomes unnecessary—save to remind you, for you to keep in mind and for you to know whom to choose.

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

It was raining yesterday morning, when I let Jubilee down by the rope in his tenth It was not such a very warm rain rather It was quite chilish Pearl soon, just were carrying umbrellas and closed automobiles were closed and open automobiles were open and wet. And nobody to let go very happy If I was grown up and didn't like the rain I would stay in the house on Sunday and let it rain But a boy or a dog is different They don't have any say whether they will go out and get wet or not The boy has it on the dog, and the father of the boy has it on both of them I would hate to be a wet dog on a cold morning I think Jubilee hated to too, the way he rolled his eyes up at me

I didn't get washed or have to go to Sunday school yesterday A grandfather can't pass his board bill many handy sometimes When I was feeling my face and the rain let up my grandfather told me to go wet dog on a cold morning I think Jubilee hated to too, the way he rolled his eyes up at me

I didn't get washed or have to go to Sunday school yesterday A grandfather can't pass his board bill many handy sometimes When I was feeling my face and the rain let up my grandfather told me to go wet dog on a cold morning I think Jubilee hated to too, the way he rolled his eyes up at me

When we got out to the place where my grandfather likes to fish the river was so high that it had run over the bank and the place where he likes to fish was only a little island about a foot square But there was an empty wooden box in amongst the trees that some pack peckers must of left there, and my grandfather set it and straddled a rose to the island and set on the box and baited his line and then it Some kind of a big fish gave the line a yank as soon as it landed and pretty soon the line broke and my grandfather fell off the box and got up saying things Then he was ashore and all at once he put his hand to his side and took it away and looked at it and it was all red and we saw his hand and looked at his clothes on that side, and they were red and soaked My grandfather limped over to high ground and he said for me to send someone for a doctor and a ambulance

The last log of Lelpo has had lots of pranks skunking out, so he went My grandfather said he want to come to tell his mother he had been glad to live and not afraid to die and why in heck didn't that doctor come Then he laid still till the doctor came with an ambulance And they put him on a stretcher and the doctor pulled my grandfathers shirt out of his pants and looked at his side and then he felt in my grandfathers pocket and found a bottle of red antiseptic the cork had come out of Oh boy!

The Heart Story of a Woman's Lasting Affections

BY ADELE GARRISON

Katie's Unusual Request Arouses Curiosity

KATIE was fly in about her kitchen like mad when I entered it and her eyes were unusually bright when she turned toward me at my entrance That she was tremendously excited about something I promptly guessed, for her experience with my little maid has accustomed me to her vagaries and I was not surprised when she rushed into impetuous speech

"Oh Missis Graham" she said "I so glad you come I shoost going over to ask you something I want have loonch half past twelve to day and pik opp my clothes till I come back des afternoon Me I shoost got word I vill to go over by Joe Quogue early dees afternoon, but I coom back quick I not stay long"

Why Has the mail come I asked vaguely puzzled by something in her manner and instinctively sparing for time at her unusual request Katie never changes the tense of the family meals and strongly resents any one else doing so

She hesitated oddly her face clouding then it as suddenly cleared again

No if no coom our telegram coom von Missis Underwood get here I no tell you can you hurry off so qveech to her room

She was drawing vividly on my imagination I was sure of that but there was nothing for me to do save humor her Katie's requests for indulgence are so few and her faithful service so exceptional that I would have acceded to a far greater upsetting of my household routine than luncheon a half hour earlier

Of course Katie" I said heartily noting that my belated assent was just in time to dispel the storm clouds I saw gathering in her always expressive face "I'll go and tell the family of the change

She beamed again

Tank you tank you she said I know you fix eet for me But you not goin, so qveech? You vant somethings ven you coom in shoost now?

I wanted to talk over something with you' I said truthfully, but there won't be time now, and it will do just as well this afternoon when you come back or even tomorrow if you are late

Me I no vait,' Katie returned "shoost see—" she amended hastily—"I see Nannie not I going to see meets me Maybe I miss her vance and half hunt for her But I not think so I think I come back by tree o'clock

I mentally rubbed her an optimist as I went upstairs to notify the family of the change in the luncheon hour Quogue is a good twenty miles away and the ramshackle old car which is the pride of Katie and Jim is limited in its speed possibilities If she took any time at all for the errand which was of enough importance to make her change the family luncheon hour she would not be back in three—or four four

But I had something else on my mind besides Katie's vagaries as I tapped on my mother in law's door I knew that to all the rest of the household the mere announcement of luncheon a half hour earlier would be sufficient For myself I was distinctly glad as it would give me plenty of time to reach Easthampton before Mary's announced appearance there But my doughty mother in law abhors any change in routine and she is especially resentful of any deviation from household rule upon Katie's part I expected an uncomfortable session with her and my expectations were not disappointed

"I never heard of anything so ridiculous in my life" she stormed when I had told her of Katie's request and my assent to it "Turning a whole house upside down because a hired girl wants to go traipsing over the country in that ridiculous car of hers I don't believe she ever had a telegram at all She simply made up a cool and bold story and you're fool enough to swallow it"

DRAMATIC STORY OF AMAZING ADVENTURE

BY WILLIAM ALMON WOLFF

CHAPTER THIRTY SEVEN

For a full minute none of the three in the bow shared with Renshaw the knowledge that the entire situation had changed. But when the speedier craft was afire there was no purpose in joining the hideous duel even was making. It was Harry looking back who first became aware of what was going on. "Jim" as he cried out Jim saw a flash in the bow of the pursuing boat flash vanish flash again. "What's that" cried Harry leaping to the stern. Bryce followed him and stared bewildered alarmed at the little flashing pin pricks of light in the east darkness.

"They're signalling" cried Bryce. "What the devil's going on"

He laughed excitedly.

"You seem to be nervous old man" he said. "What's exciting you"

But not for a moment did he take his eyes from the other boat. He could not a single letter of the message that was being sent.

"Signalling" shouted Harry. "What are they saying"

"Search me. Can't you read code—you or Caleb" said Bryce.

"Naw. Never had time for monkey business like that."

"Crowd her Cale" cried Bryce turning back to the man at the wheel. "Give her all she's got! We've got to get away—we can't have anyone following us to see where we go."

"She's doing all she's good for—I'm afraid of overheating" as it is growled Caleb. "You ask me and I'll tell you that other boat's got the heels of us—if the sound of her engine means anything! We can't go no faster!"

"We've got to—she's overhauling us."

"It's all right to say got to—try and make her" growled Caleb.

Harry turned on Jim suddenly his manner full of menace.

"Down—you" he said savagely. "Down so you can't be seen! Drink ons of the bilge—I won't hurt you!"

"Oh go to the devil" said Jim. "I'm not taking orders from anyone like you!"

"Shut up Harry" said Bryce. "Let's wait before we yell—may be just some fellow trying out a speed boat. You make anything out of what they're signalling with that flashlight Renshaw?"

"Sure. I can read Morse as easily as I can print, said Jim.

He was defiant now. His heart sang. Hope that had been dead had blazed up again within him.

"The devil you can!" said Bryce. "What's it all about then?"

"Wish you knew—don't you" said Jim. "You won't find out from me!"

"Not so good" said Bryce. "You'd better get down—no—Harry—tie him up." He turned back to Jim. "Sorry old man but I can't take any more chances till I know what's going on—"

Harry came toward him triumphantly a coil of rope in his hand. Jim waited for the psychological moment then with a clean swift blow at the point of his chin knocked him out. He faced Bryce breathing hard.

"I don't want to hit you too—but I will if you make me" he said.

"Get back Bryce."

"You damned fool—" Bryce's manner had changed. He was no longer smooth and suave and tolerantly amused. Fear edged his voice. He was the literal example of the weak amiable incompetent suddenly made aware of how fatally he has bungled something. "You damned fool—I refuse to be considerate—"

"Get back" snapped Jim. "I've no time to fool with you now Bryce. All right—if you want it—"

But Bryce was no such easy victim as Harry had been. He ducked under Jim's blow came in swiftly with a good uppercut that shook Jim and came near to settling the issue at once. Then amazingly ridiculously they were fighting in that swaying shuddering craft. Once Jim by chance stepped on Harry's hand and the man cried out in pain. But he had no time to heed that. It took all his skill in boxing to hold Bryce back.

Then a sudden swerve of the boat sent them both down rolling over and over together in the bilge water. Jim laughed in his excitement. Bryce swearing spitting out water was the first to get on hands and knees. For a moment as if by common consent they stopped struggling. The reason for their fall was plain.

Caleb at the wheel had taken a hand in the desperate game they were all playing. He had stopped just in time, ahead he must have seen that the other boat was the speedier and was bound to overhaul them ere long if both kept a straight course.

And now with a mastery of his craft that Jim was forced to admire he was twisting this way and that, turning dodging. It was for all the world Jim thought like a run in football with a man carrying the ball the length of a broken field.

But, no matter how Caleb turned and twisted always the other boat followed. There was no chance it seemed to shake her off. She too was handled by a master at such work.

Now in the desperate game of hide and go seek—or was it follow my leader?—that they were playing the speed of both racing boats was reduced. Jim with unwilling tribute of admiration for Caleb saw the game he was playing—the man was taking no one chance of escape. They were in real shoal water now rocks loomed on either side once or twice Jim actually felt the paper thin hull rub against something.

Caleb's object was plain. He trusted to his own knowledge of the ground to come on of the maze unearthed he bowed to make the other boat pile in on some half hidden rock and so put her out of the race. Jim saw with a new thrill that the other pilot was as good a hand as Caleb himself. Unerringly he avoided the traps and pitfalls Caleb set steadily he gained. Now he could see a white figure at the wheel of the other boat. Jim's hand sank in hack-atkins deep bed with the water kicked up by the boat's speed.

In his intense interest in what was going on Jim forgot for a perilous moment that he was to simply a spectator but a vitally concerned participant.

The grip of a hard about his ankle dragging him down awoke him just in time to the true state of affairs. He cried out savagely he shook off Bryce's grip. And then ruthlessly he reached for and got a terrible hold. His hand gripped Bryce's wrist he twisted his arm behind him in an agonizing hammer lock.

"Had enough" he panted. "I don't want to break your arm—"

Bryce struggled on. But no courage could withstand that pain he cried out all at once in his agony and collapsed. And in that moment there was a sharp impact as the boats side swerved drunkenly and the next moment the whole bottom was ripped out by a sharp rock.

"Jim" cried a voice he knew—and recognized in sheer stark wonder.

"Jump—quick—quick! I'll pick you up."

The water closed over him as he leaped and he went down down so deep he thought he would never rise. Then he was shooting upward as he came to the surface a hand reached down he scrambled up into the other boat.

"Irene" he cried.

Who else? Her voice was shrill with excitement and triumph. "I saw your signal—I came as soon as I could get into this boat! Jim—where on earth have you been? We were frightened to death! Everyone's been looking for you."

He struggled for breath as soon as he could he told her what had happened.

Ralph she said. "You think—Jim do you mean you think it was Ralph who had you carried away?"

"Of course it was" he said.

"I don't believe it" said Irene flatly. "He's been hunting for you. He doesn't pretend to like you—but—oh no—he'd never do a thing like that."

Jim stared.

"But—I know it" he cried. "There can't any doubt—"

"You must be mad" she said. "Jim—I'll be angry if you persist in such a crazy story. Whoever it was that carried you off Ralph had nothing to do with it—I'm sure of it."

He felt as if the bottom had dropped out of the world.

"I—well—" he said dismayed. "Then look here—we can't leave those fellows to drown—"

"They're all right" she said. "I saw them climb up on that rock. I'll send some one to get them and bring them ashore."

He stared at her and shook his head hopelessly.

HARD GAMES AHEAD OF HARDING

BOHYER TEAM MUST BEAT BUCYRUS AND MANSFIELD ELEVENS

Locals Have Big Chance of Winning N C O Title

BY KARL B McELROY
Sports Editor, The Star

WITH the championship of the North Central Ohio league flying ahead of them just out of reach Coach Dewey Bohyer's Red and Black gridiron warriors will enter their last week of practice this afternoon in preparation for the final dash for the league pennant.

Best Bucyrus in the city is rounding over the practice field for Saturday afternoon the local warriors will play their first away from home game at the Crawford county metropolis.

Saturday's fray will also mark the opening of Harding's difficult schedule in the N C O in which they will meet two of the toughest teams in the league. Following the Bucyrus clash Harding will take on Mansfield then will come an easy non league game at Delaware followed by Shelby here.

Has Clean Record

To date Harding is the only team in the league with a clean record. Mansfield and Bucyrus have been defeated but played a tie game earlier in the season. Galion won one fray after losing a pair of them while the Ashland team has been stopped in both of its league starts. Shelby dropped its first game Saturday.

In glancing over this situation it would look as if Harding has as good a chance of copping the title as anyone else. Saturday's upset at Galion when Shelby, last year's champion was defeated leaves but two outstanding teams to give Coach Bohyer real concern.

Fans will watch with great interest the result of this week's game. If Harding wins championship stock in the local aggregation will jump skyhigh for only Mansfield will stand in the way.

Defeat Would End Hopes

A defeat, however, would put the Red and Black down among the also rans with Mansfield and Bucyrus favored to finish the season in a tie for league honors.

The worst the local camp is looking for is a tie game. Tonight's workout will see practically every member of the regular team out in uniform and taking part in practice. Last week's layoff gave the injured members of the team plenty of chance to get up while the balance of the eleven was being sent through hard practices.

Weather conditions permitting this week Coach Bohyer is anticipating sending his men through their stiffest training period of the year. Every player will be compelled to show his stuff for the local coaches are taking no chances on taking a blow on the head from Bucyrus.

ARMY AND HARVARD MEET AFTER 18 YEARS

French of Harvard (at extreme left) about to receive pass from Guarnaccia. He was tackled by Eagle and failed to gain. In the first contest between West Point and Harvard since 1910 the Cambridge gridders met defeat at the hands of their old rivals 27 0 which might be called something of a surprise in that their thirteen previous battles ended with a crimson victory. The stadium at Cambridge was packed to overflowing while 55 000 storm'd the gates in vain. Chis picture was rushed to the Middle West over telephone wires.

BY JOHN W HEISMAN

IT has been raining for hours the football field is a sea of sudden mud and slime ankle deep in a welter of the consistency of oleomargarine. For almost the full 60 minutes of a football game Princeton and Colgate have been battling, though it was hard to tell whether it was a land battle or a naval engagement.

There remain but a few minutes of playing time and neither team seems to have much advantage as to playing skill and none as to score. What gaining has been done by either team has been by practically but one man his name is Tryon and he plays half back for Colgate and is captain of the New Yorkers. The reason—he and no others—seems to because he alone seems able to keep his feet.

Tryon's towering weight his Goliath like limbs his churning tramping style of running with knees raised high each time and e mits down with the tramp the stamp the pound of a pile driver—these are the movements which result in his clients catching for at least a kind of uncertain foothold where all others back in the slough have none at all.

"EDDIE" TRYON

Forty six colleges were after him. He chose Colgate and became its recognized star.

PRINCETON fears this man—he is no newcomer to this terse game no unheralded novice. Fame and reputation have not belied his powers for they have not been able to stop him safely at any time during the day not withstanding they discover early that he is the only visiting luminary they need watch. If they can but hold him a few remaining minutes the Tiger will escape with a tie score and his life and can then crawl back to his lair and lick his wounds.

Again Tryon carries the ball he is heading for the end of the Princeton line. His jaws are clamped tight his peers through narrowed slits, his lips are a thin long, hard line. He holds his flat somehow a la on and on rounds the end and turns down. They clutch at him maul him he staggers but hurls them aside more of them grab at him he deals stiff arm blows he stalks and stamps along, wading deep in the field of filth tearing, and tattering along until at last he falls across the line. He has won his only Princeton game.

THIS chap was a wonder in his prep school forty six different colleges tried to persuade him to enter their halls. Look but once at those matchless legs muscles as with the thews of Mars and you would understand why Tryon was not fast for a back but he was one man who would gain ground against all teams even without speed. He was another Huston—a tackle breaker of purest ray serene.

They might get their tackle around his legs but could they hold it? Hardly. And it was like diving under the horns of a charging bull to get under his steely stiff arm so one could try to tackle those adamantine pillars.

In 10-3 Eddie scored 11 touchdowns, in 1924 another 11 touchdowns and in 1925 his total was 15. Not more than two or three men have scored more points than that in their careers and probably none of them that many in recent times. Against Columbia in 19-2 he made runs of 95 10 50 65 and 85 yards—all to touchdowns.

TRYON had splendid disposition. He loved to play he was open to instruction and coaching he obeyed orders trained faithfully was easily welded into the team plays of his coaches kept a fearless heart in his breast, became proficient in all phases and departments was a fine blocker tackler and punter and followed in reference with as perfect judgment as man has ever shown on any field. To see him following in the wake of Colgate's wonderful running guard Welch in game after game was a sight never to be forgotten.

Colgate will long miss Tryon but never will forget him.

"SPARE RIBS" WHY AREN'T YOU GOOD FOR SOMETHING MORE THAN JUST A PARKING PLACE FOR FLEAS? YOU WOULDN'T WIN ANY RIBBONS, AND YOU'RE CERTAINLY NOT A RIN TIN TIN! IF I HAD IT TO DO OVER AGAIN I'D GET A THOROUGH-BRED INSTEAD OF A SAD-EYED MUTT LIKE YOU!
WHY PUPPY! YOU'RE LICKING MY HAND! I'M ASHAMED OF MYSELF FOR THE WAY I SPOKE TO YOU!
YOU'VE GOT SOME WONDERFUL TRAITS, OLD BOY! MAYBE IT'S PERSONALITY, BECAUSE NOBODY CAN HELP LIKING YOU! I BAWLED YOU OUT, BUT YOU DON'T GET SORE! WHAT A WONDERFUL WORLD IT WOULD BE IF US HUMANS COULD BE HALF AS FORGIVING AS YOU!

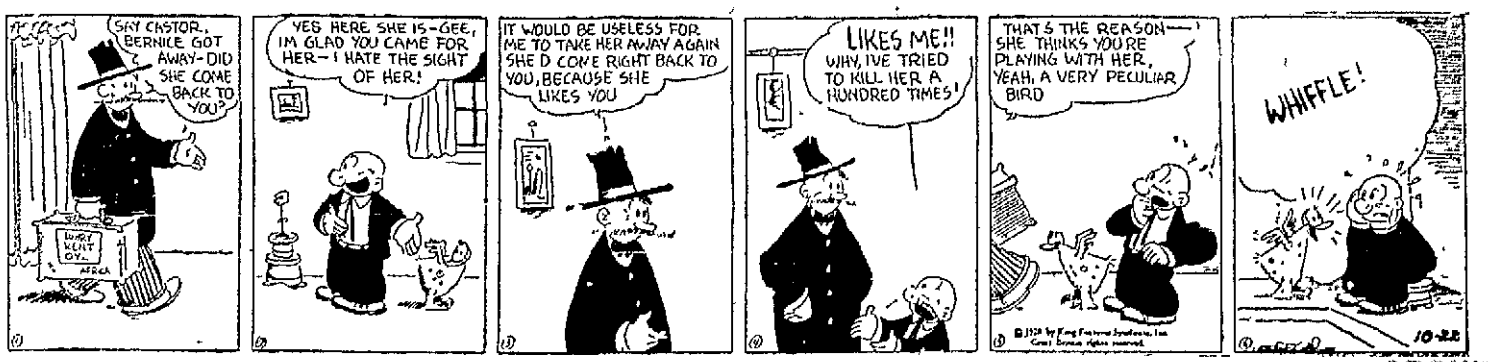
THIMBLE THEATER — BY SEGAR



SAY CASTOR, BERNICE GOT AWAY- DID SHE COME BACK TO YOU?
YES HERE SHE IS- GEE, I'M GLAD YOU CAME FOR HER- I HATE THE SIGHT OF HER!
IT WOULD BE USELESS FOR ME TO TAKE HER AWAY AGAIN SHE'D COME RIGHT BACK TO YOU, BECAUSE SHE LIKES YOU LIKES ME!! WHY, I'VE TRIED TO KILL HER A HUNDRED TIMES!
THAT'S THE REASON— SHE THINKS YOU'RE PLAYING WITH HER, YEAH, A VERY PECULIAR BIRD

Profit-Taking Wipes Out Last Week's Industrial Gains

MARKET IS ROBBED OF BUYING POWER

Call Loan Rate Marked Down to Six Per Cent.

EXPANSION CONTINUES

Special Stimulus Reported for Liquidation of Stocks

BY W. S. COUSINS
I. N. S. Financial Editor

New York, Oct. 22—Industrial stocks eased down to a slightly low range of prices today in a profit-taking and liquidating movement which wiped out most of the early gains as well as a portion of last week's spectacular advances. Completion of pool operations, in Hudson Motors, Studebaker, Hudson and other well known market favorites removed the market of the buying power which was such a powerful factor in last week's sensational movements, and for the most part the trading was also in a selling mood.

The day's developments in finance and industry were both favorable. Industrial and commercial centers reported further expansion of important lines of manufacturing industry and the call money rate, after opening at 6½ per cent was marked down to 6 per cent shortly after mid-day. From that standpoint there was therefore no special stimulus for broad liquidation of stocks, but the commission houses which have been emphasizing the need for conservatism renewed their appeals for profit-taking and the "lightening of weak and overstocked accounts" in view of the wide advance in prices in recent weeks.

The steel stocks and the motors, with a few of the high priced specialties, were offered in large volume and were ground gradually, price levels were ground gradually, price levels in many of the market favorites receiving the support of buying demand from the "bargain hunters" who have been ready to purchase a point or two below the previous closing prices. The copper stocks made an excellent showing with Kennecott, American Smelting, Cerro De Pasco and Chile up one to three points on the prospect of further improvement in the copper confidently predicted.

Cotton

New York, Oct 22—Cotton opened firm today at advances of eight to 14 points. December sold at 19.45C, January 19.61C, March 19.64C, May 19.45C, July 19.34C and October 19.00C.

LOCAL STOCK RISES DURING LAST WEEK

After a period of reaction during which the stock declined several points, Marion Steam Shovel Co common developed renewed strength in last week's transactions on the New York curb market and again reached 50, the high mark of the year. Sales totaled 4,200 shares during the week, a review of transactions for the period showed today.

The stock stood at 57 3-4 at the close of business Friday, Oct 19. Low for the week was 55 1-2.

Coffee Market

New York Oct 22—Raw coffee futures opened steady today at advances of 2@5 points. December sold at 16.15, March 15.50, May 15.05 and September 14.30.

TODAY'S REVIEW OF SATURDAY'S GRAIN

Chicago, Oct 22—This week the action of the grain markets may be particularly interesting because wheat and corn present market conditions which are diametrically opposed. Every aspect of the wheat situation seems to be bearish, every aspect of the corn situation seems to be bullish.

The latter is perhaps more interesting at the moment because it does not seem to be so generally appreciated. Everybody is familiar with the bearish situation in wheat. Everybody knows the crops here and in Canada are big and that receipts are enormous; that the visible supply in this country, likely to be added to by a large increase again today, is enormous—the largest on record at this season of the year in peace times.

But everybody does not seem to be aware of the exceedingly bullish situation in corn. That grain is being sold heavily apparently for no other reason than the bearish situation in wheat.

The prospects in corn are that we shall come to the first of November with the smallest visible supply on record. Today there is likely to be a decrease of 1,000,000 bushels at least, and that will bring down the visible supply to close to 2,000,000 bushels.

By Nov. 1 it may be conservatively estimated that the visible supply will be 500,000 bushels or less. Last year on November 1 it was 20,571,000 bushels, and December corn started up from 83¾ to 88, where it sold on the last day of the month.

Nov. 1, 1926 the visible supply was 22,258,000 bushels. For the preceding eight years the visible supply averaged 6,877,000 bushels on Nov. 1 and never but once in 1923, got under 1,000,000 bushels.

Added to this is the practical certainty that the government figures issued early next month will show that farm reserves as of the first of November are in the neighborhood of 100,000,000 bushels less than they were at the corresponding time a year ago.

FLETCHER TALKS

Congressman Gives Address at Epworth M. E. Church

Congressman Brooks Fletcher delivered a 10 minute address on "The Measure of a Man," following Sunday school services at Epworth M. E. church yesterday. His wife, Mrs. Martha Fletcher, who was to have presented a musical program, was unable to fill the engagement because of illness.

In his talk Congressman Fletcher said: "Today in every field of production they are testing the raw materials with more precision than ever before. The testing of the raw materials that enter into the making of manhood and womanhood is more and more approaching an exact science.

"The universal brotherhood dream of Christ was so great that after 2000 years we are still struggling to make it a reality. To the agnostic who doubts the divinity of Jesus I should like to submit the question: Where is there a substitute for the philosophy and the personality of the Christ?"

Could you ask an easier way to own a Hoover? You don't want to let such an opportunity slip by Telephone—not in a day or so, but RIGHT NOW, and make sure that you get a Hoover on these special terms

TODAY begins our special short-time OFFER!

The HOOVER
can now be yours on unusually easy terms

Every woman in this community can now say good-bye to half-way cleaning methods! Before another day has passed she can have in her home the finest of all electric cleaners—the cleaner whose super-efficiency begins where ordinary vacuum cleaners leave off—The Hoover!

What is the great difference between The Hoover and all other cleaners? Simply this. When you clean a rug with a Hoover you clean all the way through.

Suction won't reach the firmly-embedded grit at the bottom of the rug. The way to get this most dangerous dirt of all is to vibrate it to the surface. And that's exactly what The Hoover does through "Positive Agitation." And that's why it removes from the rug more dirt per minute than other cleaners.

Think what a super-cleanliness you bring into your home when you purchase a Hoover! Think of the time and strength which its easier, faster, deeper cleaning would save.

Yet you can buy The Hoover right now—and for only a limited time—for a down-payment so small you will never in the world miss the money. The whole purchase plan is equally generous. You pay for The Hoover as you use it—small monthly amounts that wouldn't inconvenience anyone.

If you have an old cleaner, we will make a liberal allowance for it on your new Hoover And we offer you a choice of two wonderful models—the famous Model 700, finest of all electric cleaners, and a new popular-priced model, selling for a price no higher than that of an ordinary vacuum cleaner! Both have the remarkable cleaning principle, exclusive with Hoover products, "Positive Agitation."
